KENTON PLANT SMASHED BY RAIDERS

Bodies of Two War Dead Arrive Here Today

CITY WILL PAY ITS TRIBUTE TO ALL FRIDAY

Plans for Pause in Activities from 2:30 to 2:35; Whistles To Mark Period.

The first Marion World War II dead are being returned here today.

The bodies of First Lieutenant Busby W. Sweney, U. S. Army Air Corps, and Ira Clarence Howard, carpenter's mate 2/c, U. S. Navy, who were among the first war dead returned to the United States aboard the Honda Knot from their original overseas burial places, were scheduled to arrive at the Union Station at 4:18 p. m. They were brought on the C & O Railroad from the Columbus Distribution Depot where they were sent following arrival at San Francisco, Calif.

Each of the bodies was accompanied by a guard of honor from the Columbus Depot. First Lieutenant Gordon G. Michael stood guard at the Sweney casket, and Glenn S. Garner, chief machinist's mate, at the Howard casket.

From the depot, the bodies were taken to the Merle H. Hughes Mortuary on Mt. Vernon avenue, which is in charge of the services.

City's Tribute

As a memorial tribute, symbolic of the city's respect for all dead of World War II, the flag in front of the Marion county honor roll at the courthouse was placed at half mast at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and will remain at that position until after the funeral services. A wreath was also placed at the same time before the honor roll as a tribute.

Funeral services are to be conducted for the two men Friday, and throughout that day, all retail merchants are being requested to fly their flags. Those flying from flagstaffs are to be at half mast.

The courthouse bell will toll for five minutes Friday from 2:30 to 2:35 p. m., and the Marion Power Shovel Co. and the Huber Mfg. Co. whistles will blow at 2:30 and again at 2:35 on that day to designate the five minutes of suspended business operation in honor of the war dead.

These brief ceremonies are to honor these and all future war dead to be returned to Marion county.

Friends may call at the funeral home and pay respects to the families after noon Thursday.

Military services for Navy man Howard, husband of Mrs. Shirley Howard of 215 Pearl street, will be a brief ceremony at 1 o'clock Friday at the funeral home followed by the burial rites at the graveside in Marion cemetery. The short services are being held because of the serious illness of several members of the family.

Navy Club in Charge

The Navy club will be in charge, with American Legion members serving as pallbearers. The firing squad will be from the Navy club. Rev. D. H. Hochstetler, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church, will officiate.

Surviving Howard with his widow are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard of Waldo, two brothers, Charles Howard of Gurley avenue and Rev. Ivan Howard of University Park, Iowa, and two sisters, Mrs. Roscoe Rengert of Waldo and Mrs. A. C. White of San Bernadino, Calif. Howard was stationed in the Coral Sea Islands in the South Pacific at the time of his death, Sept. 7, 1943. Death was the result of Hodgkins disease while in "performance of duties and service of his country."

Lt. Sweney, killed in action in Kweilin, China, Dec. 11, 1943, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Sweney of 627 Pearl street.

Opening of Caskets Banned by Order.

In Columbus, Gov. Thomas J. Herbert has ordered an emergency 60-day regulation, effective immediately, banning opening of sealed caskets of Ohio's war dead being returned from foreign battle cemeteries, The Associated Press reported.

The state public health council requested the action in a meeting Saturday because of possible exposure of living persons to any communicable diseases the soldiers may have contracted before death.

Governor Herbert explained that he was invoking his own right to make the emergency regulation effective at once instead of at the end of 30 days. Dr. John D. Porterfield, state health director, said a hearing would be conducted Dec. 6 on whether to make the regulation permanent. Seventeen other states already have such a regulation, he said.

GET OUT VOTE DRIVE SET BY JR. C. OF C.

Designed To Stimulate Interest in Election.

A "Get Out the Vote" campaign was launched by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at a dinner meeting in the Y.M.C.A. last night.

Designed to stimulate voting in this year's off-year election, the campaign will concentrate on bringing the public's attention to four major issues up for vote Nov. 4—the veterans' bonus bill, gas tax anti-diversion amendment, county auditorium bond issue, and the proposal to extend the term of probate judges from four to six years.

John Millard Diehl was named chairman of the "Get Out the Vote" committee, with Robert A. Axe, Robert G. Burton, Jim Graner, George T. Jacob, John Powell Jr., J. Edward Thomas, and Ronald H. Wilson, assisting on the committee.

The Jaycees plan to put out posters next Saturday reading "Vote as You Please, but Vote." About 600 posters will be displayed in residential areas, in factories, downtown, and on buses.

The committee hopes to hold a round table discussion on WMRN on the eve of the election with members from all the veterans organizations in Marion participating. The veterans' bonus will probably be the main topic of discussion.

ALL EXCEPT PREMIER QUIT FRENCH CABINET

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 22—The members of France's cabinet handed their resignations today to Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier, but the premier himself did not resign.

In the midst of what the premier called France's grave economic situation, his office announced that Ramadier himself was firmly intent upon going ahead with the formation of a new government. It was not certain, however, that Ramadier would be successful.

The announcement came with startling suddenness, just three days after Gen. Charles De Gaulle's smashing success in France's municipal elections.

CHILE JOINS BRAZIL IN BREAK WITH RUSS

By The Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 22—Chile, blaming Communists for a recent coal strike, was aligned with Brazil today in a diplomatic break with the Soviet Union.

The Chilean government said last night it had severed diplomatic and consular relations with Russia and with Czechoslovakia as well because of "instigations of international Communists" held to have "disturbed the public quiet of Chile."

The Brazilian foreign minstiry announced earlier in Rio de Janeiro that Brazil had cut diplomatic ties with the Soviet government because of what it called "outrageous and even calumnious" Russian press criticism of Brazil's president Eurico Gaspar Dutra and her army.

Chile's step will leave the Soviet-oriented section of Europe without a single representative in Santiago. Yugoslavia broke relations with Chile Oct. 11 in protest at Chile's expulsion of two Yugoslav diplomats. No other countries in the eastern European bloc have had representation here.

ROBERT TAYLOR CALLED UPON AT RED PROBE

Large Crowd, Mostly Women, Jam Room as Actor's Appearance Is Expected.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Chairman Thomas (R-NJ) said today the house committee on un-American activities has "a very complete record on at least 79" Hollywood personalities who have engaged in subversive activities.

Thomas made this statement as the committee started the third day of hearings in its investigation of Communism in the motion picture industry.

He did not name any names but said "documented evidence" will be offered during the hearings on these 79.

Drawn by the prospective appearance of actor Robert Taylor as a witness, spectators pressed to get into the big hearing room in the house office building. Women were in the majority.

Thomas told reporters he expected Taylor to take the stand about 2 p. m.

Taylor is expected to expand on his testimony, given a subcommittee in Hollywood last spring, that he reluctantly played in the movie, "Song of Russia." Other witnesses have called this wartime production Russian propaganda.

Executive Called

As the first witness for the third day, Thomas called James A. McGuinness, 53-year-old Irish-born executive of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

McGuinness told the committee he has "general editorial supervision" over many of the scripts made into movies by M.G.M.

He related that five script writers had protested against release of the movie "Tennesse Johnson" because "we had apparently done the Commies a disservice" by representing the "true life" of Thaddeus Stevens.

The movie was based on President Andrew Johnson's life. Stevens, a prominent political figure of the time, figured in the unsuccessful impeachment proceedings against Johnson.

M.G.M. released the picture, McGuinness said, but did not exploit it because it did not want to stir up controversy at a time when the nation was at war. The picture was made late in 1941.

McGuinness said the writers who protested were Donald Ogden Stewart, Hyde Kraft, Richard Collins, Jules Dassein and Ring Lardner Jr. He was not certain how Dassein spelled his name, but said he believed D-a-s-s-e-i-n was correct.

Reflection on Negroes

He said the writers complained that the picture was "a reflection on the Negro race." He said he did not agree with that criticism but added that there was a "Communist" organization in Los Angeles at the time known as "The Thaddeus Stevens club."

Asked by Thomas if he believes the picture "Mission to Moscow" and "North Star" were pro-Russian propaganda, McGuinness said he considers them as "a form of intellectual lend-lease."

The testimony of actor Adolphe Menjou yesterday highlighted a session enlivened by the forcible

King's Daughters Delegates Hold Three Sessions Today

Approximately 300 members of the King's Daughters representing circles and chapters throughout the state are in Marion attending the three-day annual convention of the Ohio Branch of the International Order of King's Daughters and Sons which got under way Tuesday afternoon at the Trinity Baptist church. The Marion City Union members are hostesses for the affair.

Three sessions were planned for today with a luncheon at Wesley Methodist church and a dinner for the convention guest, Mrs. Frederic Bond of Miami, Fla., international president, the executive board and the city and county union presidents tonight at the First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Bond will deliver the address at tonight's session beginning at 8 o'clock. Special musical numbers will be given and devotions will be by Rev. Holloway. Regular business and reports will be given during the morning and afternoon meetings.

A communion service in charge of Rev. Holloway, pastor of Trinity church, opened the first session at 1:30 o'clock yesterday. He was assisted by Rev. E. H. Wierth, pastor of the First Evangelical and Reformed church, Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor of Epworth Methodist church, Rev. Eldred Johnston, pastor of Central Christian church, and Rev. D. H. Hochstetler, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church. Preceding the communion was an organ prelude by Mrs. Virgil Curl.

Memorial Service

Mrs. Robert Morgan of Bellefontaine conducted the memorial service as a tribute to those members who have died during the last year. She read excerpts from the book of Hebrews and the fourth chapter of St. Mark, a poem, "Silver Loom," and also read the song, "Goodnight Here and Good Morning Up There." As a part of the memorial service, Mrs. Lester Ohls of Postoria sang "The Holy City," and the closing prayer was by Mrs. French Crow of Oakland, Calif., a past state president of the Ohio Branch.

The convention was officially opened by Mrs. Frederick G. Spieker of Toledo, state president, who presided, and salte to the flag was given by the congregation followed by the song, "America." The presentation and adoption of the program, announcement of committees and roll call followed.

Mrs. Bond, international president, was presented, along with the board members, past presidents and officers of the Young Women's Department. Reports of officers were given and also the Silver Cross magazine report.

Banquet At Church

A banquet in the evening at the First Evangelical and Reformed church preceded the evening session at Trinity church which was Young Women's Division night. Principal speaker for the evening was Miss Margaret Huffman, director of youth activities at Epworth Methodist church here. She spoke on young people's work in the church.

Miss Ramona Kaiser, chairman of the Young Women's Division, presided, and the prelude was by Mrs. Eliza Williams. Reports of the scholarship instruction courses held at Lake Chautauqua, N. Y., were given by Miss Joan Cooke of Bellefontaine, and Miss Mary Alice Urban of Toledo, who attended the six-week course this year. To close the program, two films from the American Mission to Lepers, showing the hospitals and care given to the patients, were shown.

The banquet was attended by about 300 persons. The King's Daughters colors, purple and white, were carried out in the decorations, with bouquets of purple and white asters and lighted tapers centering the tables. Guests at the banquet wer the 16 girls from the Maplecrest Home at Bucyrus and the two matrons. They presented a short program of songs and one girl gave a brief talk.

TAFT TO GIVE ANSWER FRIDAY

Dopesters Have Little Doubt Ohioan Will Declare Presidential Candidacy.

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Oct. 22—Political experts toted up the signs today and decided that by Friday the Republican party would have a second candidate for the 1948 presidential nomination in Ohio's senior senator, Robert A. Taft, who has promised to announce his status at that time.

Last night he was introduced to 600 Montgomery county Republicans as "the next president of the United States." The words belonged to Ohio's Republican National Committeewoman Katherine Kennedy Brown of Dayton, generally considered a key figure in the G.O.P.'s distaff organization.

Newsmen, attempting to call the shot before Taft's formal announcement, predicted unanimously that he will be a candidate, first to oppose former Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen, the only Republican officially seeking the nomination now.

And at Washington, Taft's friends, chiefly Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio) squared away for a campaign-launching that should make Taft's last five weeks of personal appearances and speechmaking a mild routine by comparison.

Will Manage Campaign

Ticketed to manage a Taft campaign if it develops, Brown said that the Ohio senator had made a good impression on his recent western speaking tour and confidently predicted:

"There's no doubt that Senator Taft will be elected president if he is nominated by the Republicans."

Taft remained silent, however, about the Friday announcement, refusing to be stampeded into breaking the deadline he has established. Following his address here, which was picketed by CIO union members who massed in Cletus Uhl, county leader, will meet with his workers Friday night and for the final report meeting on Oct. 31.

L. McCurdy.

MASKED BAND ENTERS SHOP OF GALION CO.

Watchman Held at Gun Point While Group Wrecks Machinery.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 22—The Kenton plant of the North Electric Co. of Galion closed today as an investigation was launched to identify persons who at gun point ransacked the plant early this morning causing extensive damage to machinery and equipment.

R. K. McBerty of Galion, vice president of the company, said that between 20 and 30 armed men entered the plant shortly after 2 a. m. today.

Ira Mabrey, nightwatchman on duty at the time, was backed into a corner at gunpoint by the masked men while they smashed equipment used in the manufacture of telephone switchboards.

Door Battered Open

McBerty said entrance was first made through a window by several of the party who then battered down the front door permitting the remainder to enter the plant. All telephone wires leading to the plant were cut.

The nightwatchman called police and company officials about 2:30 a. m. after traveling considerable distance to reach a telephone. Phone wires were cut before the men left the plant, Kenton Police Chief Clarence Sheldon said.

The raid on the plant was made after the night shift went off duty at 1:30, leaving the watchman alone at the plant.

The Kenton plant which employs about 200 persons, is one of three operated by the North Electric company now in the midst of a bitter labor dispute with the UAW-CIO. The Galion plant has been strikebound since Aug. 20.

Police Investigate

Kenton police are handling the investigation of the vandalism. Chief Sheldon said he did not believe the depredation was locally inspired. Company officials are inclined to associate the violence with union difficulties at Galion.

Police and company officials including McBerty who arrived in Kenton this morning were in conference for several hours at the plant office. McBarty said the amount of the damage had not been estimated as yet but was "extensive."

"Last Chance" Offer Made by Union

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 22—A new crisis is pending in the nine-week-old North Electric Co. strike following a "last chance" offer by the UAW-CIO to mediate the dispute.

UAW Leader Edward Duck has suggested a three-man panel representing the company, the union and the public meet to effect a settlement. The offer was made Tuesday afternoon to Robert Jamison, company attorney.

Duck said the union was making the offer to avoid strife and expected an immediate reply from the company. Failing to receive acceptance of the offer to settle the dispute, the union representative declared the UAW would assume no responsibility for the consequences.

The company today had made no answer to the union request other than to state the offer is in the hands of its attorneys.

No Trouble Today

The situation at the company plant in Galion is untroubled today, however, the UAW continues to keep six pickets moving at each of the three plant gates. No attempt to interfere with employes entering the plant has openly occurred. Pickets continue to heckle employes. The company effected a change in the morning shift time from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock. Workers now entering the gates an hour later, do so in daylight.

The union offer did nothing to

POULTRY ISSUE UP FOR ACTION

Luckman Committee To Decide Whether To Continue Thursday Ban.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—The Citizens Food committee decides today whether to call off poultryless Thursday.

Chairman Charles Luckman assembled his seven-member executive committee for an afternoon meeting to weigh a "final offer" from the poultry and feed industries to save grain for Europe in other ways.

Luckman himself was reported leaning toward the plan but committee officials said the decision would be left up to the executive body.

The proposal pledges specific savings of 16,800,000 bushels of grain from November through January by culling out poultry flocks and reducing the number of chicks hatched. It forecasts another 16,000,000-bushel saving through an industry-wide feed conservation drive.

Presented to Committee

The plan has been presented to President Truman's cabinet food committee for "appraisal and analysis", but poultry and feed industry spokesmen left town today saying they had "received no assurances whatsoever."

An equally live topic of speculation was Mr. Truman's unexpected call for a meeting of congressional leaders at the White House tomorrow.

Senators and representatives wondered whether it meant the President had decided to call a special session of congress, presumably around Dec. 1.

However, two White House advisers said Mr. Truman's chief purpose in calling the meeting was to explore further the possibility of reaching a definite agreement on whether the lawmakers should be summoned into extraordinary session.

5 Provisions

The new grain-saving proposal submitted to Luckman's executive committee contains these major provisions:

1. A 25 per cent cut in the production of "broiler chicks."

2. A reduction of at least 100,000,000 birds in the country's poultry flocks by Jan. 1.

3. A pledge by feed manufacturers and dealers to avoid use of wheat better than No. 5 grade—in other words, wheat fit for human consumption—in feed mixtures "during this emergency period."

4. A drive to induce poultrymen to cut their 1948 flocks by 20 per cent from this year's levels.

5. A guarantee of "full support" in a grain conservation drive on the country's 500,000 poultry farms.

By The Associated Press

ELYRIA, O., Oct. 22—Eight persons were injured today when a runaway Greyhound bus bound for Cleveland crashed into a tree a few minutes after colliding with an automobile east of Elyria, police reported.

The bus driver, Lawrence Boughton, 43, of Elyria, told police the brakes of the vehicle failed to work following the first collision, and he was unable to stop. He then turned the bus down a lane and into a field where the vehicle struck a tree 200 feet from the initial crash.

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

"OUTLAW the Communist party," says the witness. "That's how to get rid of communism in this country."

All around the big hearing room people—but not all the people—nod their heads yes, yes.

For two days it's been like that at the un-American activities hearing on whether there's Communist influence in Hollywood.

James Marlow

One witness after another has climbed up on the stand, talked about communism and then said: "Outlaw the party."

It's easier to talk of outlawing the party than it is to do it. Outlaw it how?

Seeking a definite answer to that question, this writer called a number of lawyers here and in New York, lawyers inside and outside the government. They are men who are specialists in civil rights and liberties.

Bunched together, their answer was: "That's a $64 question."

They didn't agree on how it could be done. They all pointed out that the supreme court might throw out a law banning the party.

Lawyers' Answers

The answers of these lawyers, some of whom admitted they are puzzled about the whole business of outlawing the Communist party, are given here:

▶Congress might try to pass a law not only banning the party but making membership in it a crime.

▶The individual states might try to crush the party by outlawing it and making membership in it a crime.

The states might claim they had a constitutional right to decide what political parties can operate in their territory.

▶Or the states might try to do it this way: by forbidding the Communist party to appear on election ballots unless it had previously won, say 50,000 votes in a past election.

(The Communist party has never won 50,000 votes in any state. Total membership in the party is probably not more than 100,000 although many more people than that, in sympathy with Communists, might vote for their candidates.)

But then would certainly follow:

The Communists, outlawed by the state or federal governments, would certainly fight through the courts up to the supreme court.

And the high court might decide that trying to outlaw a political party is unconstitutional and can't be done in this country.

Even so, where the Communist party was outlawed by name, the Communists could easily adopt some other name and carry on their work, fighting through the courts any attempt to interfere with them.

One thing to remember is this: the constitution guarantees the right of free speech.

Right here some reader may say:

But Communists want to overthrow the government by violence and the constitution doesn't guarantee freedom of speech for that.

The answer is: sure, plenty of Communist party members might like to overthrow our government by force but—

The constitution of the Communist party itself doesn't say anything about violent overthrow.

Some time ago, in a supreme court decision, Justice Murphy said:

"The 1938 constitution of the Communist party of the United States ostensibly eschews resort to force and violence as an element of party tactics."

So the Communist party, as a party, is not on record as wanting to change this government by force.

Rest Helpful in Treating Arthritis Patient

Arthritis has been called the "great crippler" because it affects so many people. It has been estimated that in the United States alone, more than 9,000,000 people are afflicted with this disease.

While about one hundred types of arthritis have been described, two are responsible for the vast majority of cases—rheumatoid arthritis, which occurs in young and middle-aged people and osteoarthritis, which is more likely to attack the elderly.

Rheumatoid arthritis causes crippling, deformity of the joints and painful swelling of the surrounding soft tissues. In osteoarthritis there is an overgrowth of the bony tissue around the joints.

Both forms are truly discouraging. And, yet, though no definite cure for arthritis has been found, there are a number of measures which do seem to give relief.

For example, with but few exceptions all such patients are benefited by rest. This rest must be both physical and mental. There should be eight hours of sleep at night and an hour or two at least of rest during the day, and this program should be followed for at least a year.

There are many who believe that a warm, dry climate is beneficial for a patient with arthritis, although such a change of climate will not bring about a cure in itself. If a person with arthritis remains in a cooler climate, he should dress warmly during the day, and be well covered at night.

The great value of rest in arthritis may account to some extent for the improvement these patients get when they go to spas, that is, places where there are mineral springs and where the patients take hot baths.

Next to rest, physiotherapy is of a great help to arthritis patients This means the use of various measures to produce heat in the tissues. Massage, hot baths and diathermy all are useful. A simple apparatus can be employed at home to produce heat in the tissues.

Massage should always be light over the affected joints if they are inflamed. More vigorous massage may be used if the joints are simply stiffened.

The diet for arthritic patients should, of course, be well balanced, supplying all the necessary vitamins and minerals.

Vitamin D in large doses is beneficial to many arthritics. However, it should be employed only under the direction of a physician, since reactions may occur.

The drugs known as salicylates are useful in relieving pain and bringing comfort.

In any event, the patient with arthritis should not give up hope, for with the proper treatment great benefits can be brought about in his condition.

Answer: It is impossible to tell whether the condition is of importance, until a careful study is made by a physician.

Byrnes Writes About Trouble With Russia Over Romanian Rule

This is a serialization of James F. Byrnes' "Speaking Frankly" a series of fifteen chapters of the book published Oct. 15, 1947, by Harper & Brothers. Copyright, 1947, by James F. Byrnes Foundation (A Charitable Trust).

By JAMES F. BYRNES

PROBABLY no new President ever faced a swifter pageant of great events than did Mr. Truman in his first weeks in office. The collapse and surrender of Germany and the San Francisco conference held the center of stage before a world audience that was stirred by victory and filled with high hopes for the future.

But those of us who were familiar with Soviet activities following the Yalta conference found our high hopes mingled with great concern.

Before President Roosevelt's death, in fact, even before his return from Yalta, difficulties had arisen with the Soviet Union regarding the action to be taken on the agreements reached. The two principal points of difficulty were Poland and Romania.

In the Declaration on Liberated Europe the three governments had exchanged pledges to "concert during the temporary period of instability in liberated Europe the policies of their three governments in assisting the peoples liberated from the domination of Nazi Germany and the peoples of the former Axis satellite states of Europe to solve by democratic means their pressing political and economic problems." It stated further that the three governments "will jointly assist" the peoples of this area "to form interim governmental authorities broadly representative of all democratic elements in the earliest possible establishment, through free elections of governments responsive to the will of the people." And finally, it added that "when, in the opinion of the three governments, conditions in any European liberated state or any former Axis satellite state in Europe make such action necessary, to discharge the joint responsibilities set forth in this declaration."

Soviet Starts Refusing

Nevertheless, on Feb. 24, only two weeks after the conference, when the American and British members of the Allied Control Council for Romania requested a meeting of the council, their request was refused by the Soviet chairman. On that same day Ambassador Harriman was instructed to indicate to the Soviet government our desire to see an orderly development of the Romanian situation under the Allied Control council or else consultation among the three countries on a higher level.

Three days later we got our answer. Mr. Molotov's deputy, Andrei Vishinsky, went to Bucharest and presented a demand for the dismissal of the Radescu government and the formation of a new Romanian government. At the same time, Mr. Molotov informed our ambassador that the Radescu government was unable to maintain order and fulfill the armistice terms and that the Allied Control council would take the necessary measures and keep the Allies informed.

Mr. Harriman was instructed immediately to inform the Soviet government that we could not accept a provisional government in Romania made up of representatives from one political party. His instructions also stated that measures should be taken to support the present government in maintaining order; that freedom of press should be granted in accordance with the armistice agreement; that all political groups should be disarmed; and that full three-member consultations should take place in the Allied Control council on major political matters.

Mr. Molotov told Mr. Harriman that three-power consultations were going on with Vishinsky in Bucharest.

Job for All Three

On March 5, our ambassador presented a letter to Mr. Molotov stating that the question of the Radescu government was a matter for direct consultation and agreement by all three governments. He advised Molotov that the Soviet member of the Allied Control council had not kept the United States representative informed and that the Soviet military authorities had weakened the ability of the Radescu government to maintain order. He followed this with another note the next day rejecting the idea that he intermittent contacts with Vishinsky constituted the tripartite consultations agreed upon at Yalta.

While these exchanges were taking place between our ambassador and Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow, here is what was happening in Romania:

On Feb. 27, Mr. Vishinsky had arrived in Bucharest and requested an audience with the king that evening. He was received by the king and Foreign Minister Constantine Visoianu. Mr. Vishinsky stated that General Radescu was incapable of maintaining order; that the Soviet government was unwilling to interfere in Romania's internal affairs but had the responsibility of seeing that order was maintained behind the front and, therefore, asked that the Radescu government be dismissed immediately and replaced by a government based on "the truly democratic forces of the country." He was told that consideration would be given his request.

Burton Y. Berry, our political representative in Bucharest, was unable to obtain an interview with Vishinsky. He then informed Vishinsky in writing of the American point of view—that no decisive action should be taken prior to consultation.

King Given Time Limit

According to the information sent us by Mr. Berry, Mr. Vishinsky the next day demanded an audience with the king and asked for his decision on the suggestion of the previous evening. The king replied he had communicated this informatalon to General Radescu and had started consulting party leaders for the purpose of choosing another prime minister. Vishinsky declared this answer was unsatisfactory. Then, the report stated, Vishinsky looked at his watch and told the king he had just two hours and five minutes to make it known to the public that General Radescu had been dismissed. By 8 o'clock, he added in emphasis, the king must tell the public the name of his successor.

The Romanian foreign minister reminded Mr. Vishinsky that the king was a constitutional monarch and had to proceed in a constitutional manner; that he could only consult party leaders and follow their advice in selecting some individual to form a government. Vishinsky retorted that Radescu was protecting Fascists and by retiring 10 officers the previous day under a royal decree had performed an unfriendly act toward the Soviet Union. That decree, he said, must be annulled immediately. The king acceded to this request and Mr. Vishinsky left. In leaving he slammed the door so hard that the plaster around the door frame was cracked badly. It has never been fixed; it remains to testify to the strength of his feeling and of his arm.

Soviet Makes Choice

The king announced that he had asked Prince Stirbey to form a government. Prince Stirbey tried to comply but could not induce the Communists to join in forming a government. Shortly afterward Mr. Vishinsky sent word to the king that the Communist leader, Petru Groza, was the choice of the Soviet government. Nevertheless, the king continued to consult party leaders and on the evening of March 1, Vishinsky again saw the king to inform him personally that the Soviet Union wanted Groza appointed. The king then decided to charge Groza with the formation of a government.

Because the first cabinet suggested by Groza was not representative of the people, the king refused to accept it. Vishinsky then sent word that cancellation of the Groza appointments would be considered by the Soviet government as a hostile act. Mr. Vishinsky was quoted as saying that unless the King accepted the Groza government by the afternoon of the following day, he would not be responsible for the continuance of Romania as an independent state.

At the same time Groza announced the Soviets had promised great improvement in relations between the Soviet government and Romania, mentioning the return to Romania of control over its transportation system, the cession of Transylvania from Hungary and a relaxing in the terms of the armistice. The result was that the king summoned the leaders of the historic parties Monday night and appealed to them to disregard political considerations and support his action in accepting the Groza government.

King Under Attack

The leaders of the historic parties could not agree and the king was urged by some to abdicate. However, he concluded he could best serve the people by not deserting the country. On Tuesday night, March 6, the Groza government was sworn in and immediately afterward Marshal Malinovsky arrived in Bucharest where he and Vishinsky had an audience with the king. They told the king that they could not concentrate upon front line activities if they had unrest behind the lines. The Romanian government had failed in the past to maintain order, they said, and it would not be permitted again.

On March 7, the day after the Groza government was installed, Mr. Molotov informed our ambassador in Moscow that the question raised in his letter of March 5 had lost point since the crisis in Romania had been overcome by the formation of a new government.

The following September, while in London, Mr. Molotov urged that we recognize the Romanian government. I told him we had not recognized the Groza government because of the character of the government which had been installed by virtue of a two-and-a-half hour ultimatum given to the king by Vishinsky. Mr. Molotov then admitted that Mr. Vishinsky had "helped in the formation of the government," but said the Soviet government had acted because "there was very serious danger of disorder and civil war."

These developments, of course, had been reported in full to President Roosevelt. As a result, instructions had been sent to Mr. Harriman to propose to Mr. Molotov the establishment of a joint committee in Bucharest to safeguard the application of the principles announced in the Declaration on Liberated Europe. Mr. Molotov's rejection of this proposal was blunt. In a note dated March 17 he stated that no action was required; that our proposal would emasculate the Allied Control council, and asserted it was untrue that our representative on the council had never been consulted.

All this occurred while the Allied armies were closing in on Berlin and President Roosevelt was anxious to avoid giving aid and comfort to the enemy by a public display of disunity. The president told me he had grave misgivings about the future. However, he decided that, for the time being, our protest should be filed through our ambassador and that he would resort to direct communication to Stalin only after other efforts were exhausted.

In the fall of 1944, Churchill and his Foreign Minister, Anthony Eden, had visited Moscow and, while there was no formal agreement, we knew they had reached the informal understanding that if the British found it necessary to take military action to quell internal disorders in Greece, the Soviets would not interfere. In return, the British would recognize the right of the Soviets to take the lead in maintaining order in Romania.

President Roosevelt's personal relations with Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill have been the subject of considerable debate in the years since his death. Mr. Byrnes, who was perhaps his closest adviser in the months before his death, dismisses as "a legend" the belief that our relations with the Russians began to deteriorate only after President Roosevelt died. He supports this with the story, which has never before been published, of an angry exchange of messages between Stalin and Roosevelt over Russian suspicions of secret negotiations between British and American military leaders and the Nazi General Kesselring. This will be published tomorrow, in the ninth installment of Mr. Byrnes's "Speaking Frankly."

NEW YORK — CELEBRITY roundup.

Three young schoolteachers on a visit to Manhattan decided they wanted to see some celebrities.

Figuring that even the shyest of the famous have to come out to eat, they decided the best stalking ground would be a well known mid-town restaurant at lunchtime.

They came early and got a good table. The food was wonderful, the check was more reasonable than they expected, but the junket was a complete flop for the girls.

Hal Boyle

"Not a single celebrity in the whole place," they wailed. "We might as well go shopping."

As the disappointed teachers left they passed a bushy-haired man at the next table. He was Leopold Stokowski, the symphony conductor. The mournful-faced man they passed unnoticed in a corner was Bert Lahr, the comedian.

Don't Look Famous.

The truth is few people look less like celebrities in real life than the celebrities themselves. They don't have to. The most glamorous girls you see about town aren't famous. They'd just like to be.

Unless a celebrity has a physical trademark as prominent as Jimmy Durante's schnozzle or deliberately tries to draw the public eye, he can move about the city ordinarily as unrecognized as a sitting fly in a raisin pie.

Joan Crawford, if she wore a frumpy hairdo, a sleazy dress and stencilled her rouge on wrong, could tramp all day through a woman's department store and remain as anonymous as the third assistant floorwalker.

Harpo Marx Named.

I would nominate Harpo Marx as the celebrity who least looks like himself. I once sat across from him at dinner in a Hollywood restaurant, and learned who he was only through the conversation of others in the party. The curly wig is Harpo's mark, and he doesn't wear it away from the studio. He leaves the harp there too. Doesn't even carry a zither.

The celebrity who gains most through first-hand meeting is Eleanor Roosevelt. The newsreel and newspaper pictures convey only a fraction of her warm personality and the magnetism in her friendliness. The same is true of General Omar Nelson Bradley, President Truman and Senator Bob Taft.

The celebrities found far easiest to talk to were H. L. Mencken and the late General "Georgie" Patton. The hardest was an Indian chieftain. He couldn't even say "ugh" clearly.

Celebrities Don't Sparkle

Most celebrities don't sparkle at first meeting. Among those whose conversation I found most interesting were the late Maj. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., and Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakia's foreign minister. Roosevelt, relaxing after a trip through Tunisian front line areas, used to lie in the palm shade and recite poetry. Masaryk talks more clearly and easily than any other diplomat I ever interviewed.

Celebrities often are more courteous than ordinary folk under stress. A young advertising friend of mine once walked out of a revolving door in Radio City here and crunched down heavily on the foot of an elderly gentleman.

He looked up and found himself looking into the wincing face of John D. Rockefeller Jr. Somewhat awed, the young man stuttered:

"E-e-excuse m-m-me!"

"That's all right, son," smiled Rockefeller, and limped on.

In relating the incident the young man now starts off with, "Did I ever tell you about the time I put my foot down on Rockefeller?"

Virgil Dye To Attend March of Dimes Meeting

Virgil F. Dye, manager of Hotel Harding who recently was appointed Marion chairman for the March of Dimes campaign, left today to attend a six-state regional meeting of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis being held in Indianapolis, Ind.

Headquarters for the meeting is the Lincoln hotel there. Representatives expected to attend the meeting today will be from local chapters in Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan and Wisconsin. Plans will be made for the annual March of Dimes campaign to be held Jan. 15-30 to raise funds needed to fight the war on polio.

The 1947 campaign netted a record sum of $17,987,800.66 nationally with Ohio collecting $714,-839.68. A record campaign is planned to mark the tenth anniversary of the Foundation because of the increasing cases in recent years and the growing need for research and professional training.

South Africa's white population numbers about 2,300,000, while colored aboriginal peoples and immigrants from Asia number 8,-000,000.

Suadron Commandant At Auxiliary Meeting

An honored guest at a meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Marion Navy club Monday night in the club rooms was Mrs. Gladys Stiles of Springfield, Ohio squadron auxiliary commandant. In honor of her presence, open house was held by the local unit.

Mrs. Bertha Swogger presided as mistress of ceremonies for the program hour. Numbers included readings by Mrs. Carrie Beveridge, Mrs. Marguerite Smith and Mrs. Esther Obenour, piano solo by Mrs. Lola Lane of Mt. Gilead, a concert pianist and a guest, who also played the piano accompaniment while Mrs. Swogger whistled "Shine On Harvest Moon. Misses Janice and Rheda Shults of Ashley sang "Doin' What Comes Naturally" and did a hillbilly dance, with accompaniment by Mrs. Jayne Coffey.

Past commandants of the local auxiliary, Mrs. Evelyn Reynolds, also a past national commandant, Mrs. Margaret Foreman, Mrs. Virginia Owens, Mrs. Swogger, Mrs. Jean Watt and Mrs. Ruth Butterworth, and the present commandant, Mrs. Obenour, were honored and each presented with a corsage. Mrs. Stiles was given a gift from the auxiliary.

Following the program, a dinner was served at a U-shaped table decorated with bouquets of flowers and miniature sailboats. Serving were five men of the Navy club, A. L. Watt, John T. Koleman, A. W. Whittington, Harold Haughn and Gail Miller. Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Watt were general chairman in charge of arrangements for the affair. Guests were present from Mt. Gilead, Ashley, Cardington and Edison. One new member, Mrs. Margaret Shults, was taken into the auxiliary.

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Several men and women from Marion and vicinity who are employed in the credit departments of business houses, are planning to attend the two-day Ohio Valley Regional Credit conference opening Oct. 24, at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel, Columbus. Highlight of the conference will be Senator Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati who will discuss prices and the problems of avoiding a depression. Also featured as speakers will be Governor Thomas J. Herbert and President Howard I. Bevis of Ohio State university. In addition top leaders in the field of commerce, credit problems, and business trends will speak at the four day conference.

Rally for St. Mary Fans After Richwood Game

A "get together" of fans of St. Mary football team will be held following the game between St. Mary and Richwood teams Friday night in Moira hall, under the sponsorship of the St. Mary Booster club, it was announced today by L. K. McGinnis, president of the club.

Members of the teams and their coaches will be entertained at a "feed" and there will be refreshments for others attending the game party for a nominal fee.

A party for the team and their opponents following a home game earlier this season proved popular with members of the parish and fans, and its success prompted the Booster club, to sponsor another following this week's home game.

COPELAND MARSHAL OF ARMISTICE PARADE

Committee Lays Plans for Nov. 11 Observance.

A meeting of committee chairmen named to be in charge of arrangements for parades and other veterans activities in the city was held Monday night in the American Legion 162 Club rooms to plan for the Armistice Day parade.

R. E. Copeland was chosen to serve as grand marshal for the parade.

John Moore, general chairman of the parade committee, named the following persons in charge of the various parade units. Francis Cook, veteran groups, auxiliaries, and military unit; Carl Haberman, civilian unit; Malcolm Severns, city unit; Fred Berg, float unit; Robert McMahon, transportation; Lewis Wickersham, horse unit; R. E. Copeland, military equipment; and G. W. Roberts, Boy Scout unit.

The line of march for the parade was also decided on at the meeting and will be as follows beginning at Olney avenue, east on Church to Greenwood, north on Greenwood to Center, and west on Center to Orchard.

Plans were made for plaques and ribbons to be awarded for floats in the parade and to organizations which will be judged on the number of members present and their marching form. The plaques will be awarded as float prizes. The floats will be judged according to the different groups, veterans organizations and auxiliaries, civic groups, manufacturing groups, and merchant groups.

The next meeting of the entire United Veterans and Civic Council will be Wednesday, Oct. 29, at 7:30 p. m. in the AMVETS club rooms.

GALION COUNCIL ACTS ON POWER PROBLEM

Votes To Ask Bids on Diesel Unit Building.

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 22—Declared an emergency ordinance, city council Tuesday night suspended the rules and passed legislation with one dissenting vote by Councilman Fred Sautter, to authorize Service Director K. A. Polster to advertise for bids for construction of a cement block building at the Galion municipal light and power plant to house a diesel power unit now under contract by the city. An appropriation of $15,000 was included in the ordinance to the electric light improvement fund for the purpose of constructing the building.

Sautter said later he does not favor purchasing the diesel because one is not enough to do any good if one turbine at the municipal light and power plant is shut off.

Passing of the legislation also brought Attorney Kenneth M. Petri to his feet at which time he intimated that a taxpayers' suit may be brought against council. Petri has contended that the resolution, passed last spring for the purchase of the diesel was irregular because it was not advertised and it did not separately provide for the cost of labor and the cost of material to be purchased. He also pointed out, recently, that at the time of its passage the city did not have sufficient funds for the purchase of the equipment, nor was the money in the process of collection, as required by state law.

Other business of council included the passage of a resolution granting Earl Thoman 14 days regular pay for his vacation period in addition to his regular pay for the same period because he chose to work during his vacation.

Remodeling the House

KING GEORGE'S speech opening the new parliament indicates further curtailment will be placed on the powers of the house of lords. This was contained in his reference to legislation which will amend the parliament act of 1911.

This act reduced the lords from co-equal status with commons, took all financial legislation from them and gave them only a limited veto which commons could override by passing rejected legislation at three successive sessions. Any further curtailment will leave the lords with little more actual power than the king.

Thus Britain's parliament becomes essentially unicameral, with the government's principal executive, the prime minister, serving at the pleasure of commons because it is in its power to force an election at any time.

It is a commentary on the trend of history that the house of lords occupies much the same place commons did in 1300. The clergy and the king long since have lost their power. The lords are fast becoming only another symbol of British respect for tradition.

Installment Controls To Go

THE DATE is near when the government relaxes controls over installment buying. Articles now purchased on time payments must be paid for with one-third down and the remainder in 15 months. After Nov. 1 the terms will be as liberal as merchants and finance companies wish to make them.

A flood of installment buying at this time will cheapen the dollar even more. Supplies of many lines of merchandise are short, but with government controls coming off, the only regulatory force will be self-control.

The installment buyer who in times like these commits himself to 24 or 36 months of payments on items not urgently needed is contributing his mite to the depreciation of the dollars that go for his immediate needs. Installment buying is a legitimate and useful form of trade but now is not the time to encourage it.

Our Daily Bread

SOME OF the "thrift" menus published these days list such improbable comestibles as wheat germ oil cakes, tuna fish puffs and cereal steaks.

Let us eschew fishy monstrosities and the T-bone that snaps, pops and crackles, to consider wheat germ oil extracted from the natural grain and served in insipid patties.

Pampered American palates demand bread of the consistency of cotton candy. They demand bread from which 90 percent of the vitamins and minerals have been extracted, then buy vitamin pills and artificially enriched foods, sometimes made with the extracted wheat germ.

In place of the current tub-thumping which so far has served as a substitute for any serious self-denial on our part, why cannot Mr. Luckman's committee and the nation's bakers undertake to educate the public about bread? Why not end our disgraceful use of wheat to make bread the consistency of angel food cake when a far more nourishing loaf can be made of the whole wheat?

Being well versed in selling and advertising, Mr. Luckman doubtless could turn out a slick plug for "bread made of sun-ripened grain enriched with nature's own vitamins and minerals." Just harping on the word "vitamins" would put the campaign over with the American public which has made vitamin pills and extracts a multi-million-dollar industry.

Still No Action in China

A TOP-DRAWER puzzle in Washington these days is the reason for the suppression of Gen. Wedemeyer's report in China. Last July 11 the general was dispatched post-haste to China to survey the situation and make recommendations. His report was submitted Sept. 18 to the state department and nothing has been heard of it since.

A well-defined policy on China cannot be delayed much longer. If we refuse aid to the Chiang Kai-shek government, Russia will know that we have one policy for Europe, another for Asia, and move accordingly. Russia will know that we are indulging in her own cynical brand of political opportunism. On the other hand, pouring our substance into vast, chaotic China may spread our assistance to the world so thin it will all go for naught.

That is the dilemma our officials face. No man can say which policy is right. But the time is at hand when we shall have to set our course one way or another.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

The Egg and Mr. Luckman.

SO I take a look at the record and it would seem that the eggless Thursday and poultryless Thursday are just thrown in for nothing. This country is astonishingly full of eggs and poultry and there is no shortage and not eating eggs will add nothing to the food we wish to send the Europeans. However, by not distilling liquor and not brewing beer, the quantity of mash available for feed is reduced. Therefore, the poultry will have to be fed grain, which will reduce the quantity of grain available for export to Europe. Also, if fewer chickens and turkeys are killed, more of them will be around to eat the grain. Perhaps Mr. Luckman can explain all that. So far, his silence has indicated that he knows more about Rinso white than about the egg.

And how about cake? On a Thursday I go into a restaurant and I hear a child ask for a sliced egg sandwich. No go! It is Thursday. The child eats a tomato and bacon sandwich. But they sell her chocolate layer cake. There are eggs in that cake or is the yellow in the dough flat wall paint? Also, I note a rice pudding on the menu, not the old-fashioned "poor man's rice pudding" but the stiff kind taken out of the pot with a scoop like ice cream. And so help me—it has yellow in it. Is the yellow not an egg on a Thursday? Also, they sold spaghetti and chicken livers.

And Those Livers

Whence came those chicken livers on Thursday? Oh! Luckman, oh! Luckman, did they not tell you at the Kansas City Junior college and the University of Illinois that the liver of a chicken should come out of a chicken even on a Thursday?

So one asks, what is this campaign all about?

Suppose we look at these figures:

Farm prices on Sept. 15 reached an all-time high, 167 per cent over the 1935-39 average. When related to the commodities farmers have to buy, farm prices almost doubled the increase in prices for goods farmers bought. The farmer received for the first eight months of 1947, $17,400,000,000, or 21 per cent above the same period last year. I do not begrudge the farmer his prosperity, but the facts need to be stated.

Farm prices are supported by the government in spite of this amazing prosperity. Parity is a ratio based on the average relation of prices the farmer receives to the prices he pays (except labor costs) as compared with the August, 1909—July, 1914, average. This parity ratio rose to 121, or 21 per cent above parity, on September 15. Beef, hogs and corn were 58 per cent above parity; wheat 16 per cent above parity. In fact, the whole concept of parity disappears in these figures.

More Than Year To Go

The government support of prices, at not less than 90 per cent of parity, will remain in force through December, 1948. Three-fifth of the value of farm production grown for sale is thus supported. But an even greater support has been government buying for the armed forces and for export abroad. As long as lend-lease was available, government buying was assured. The UNRRA and Army feeding continued government buying.

Unless Mr. Luckman's program goes through, government buying will be seriously reduced. If the Marshall (16 to 1) plan is accepted by congress, government buying will continue on a large scale. At auctions, government buyers notoriously bid up and maintain farm prices at their present inflationary values. It has been government buying, more than any other factor, that has sent up the price of staple foodstuffs and that has produced shortages in big city markets.

It is not possible that the Luckman campaign is a dramatization of the desire on the part of the government to maintain current or even higher prices for farm products to keep the farmer prosperous and cheerful in a campaign year? Why, otherwise, would anyone have a meatless, poultryless, eggless day when there is an excess of meat, poultry and eggs in this country? Why would Luckman's dramatization be invoked to reduce the fat of cattle and fowl when the world is crying for more fat?

Answer that one, Charlie!

A Weekly Holiday for Hooch?

A W.C.T.U. executive has wired President Truman urging inauguration of Whiskyless Wednesdays.

This would be followed, one assumes, by Thirsty Thursdays.

There is a suspicion in some circles that this is merely an effort on the part of the drys to get their umbrellas in the door. But I doubt it. Even Carrie Nation could have seen the fallacies of part-time prohibition.

Of course, there would be a few patriotic citizens who would gladly aid the wheat-conservation campaign by drinking rye. But for the most part, the only segment of the sipping set who would observe a weekly holiday for hooch would be those without funds or foresight.

Alcohol addicts are notriously improvement. But even so, they'd probably manage to lay in the necessary one-day supply. Of course, there's no denying it's a splendid idea in theory, promising a considerable saving in grain as well as a mid-week day of rest for over-worked men of distinction.

Police State in Action

By Mark Sullivan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—President Truman's press conference last week provided a double impression. On the part of the public, the subject of greatest current interest apparently is the drive for food saving, it was about this that most of the newsmen's questions were asked.

Correspondingly definite was an impression Mr. Truman created, it included the philosophy of government he entertains. Food saving is an urgent concern with him—but likewise urgent is his wish that it be done by voluntary methods. This is a free enterprise country and voluntary food saving is the free enterprise way. Time and again Mr. Truman mentioned, and expanded upon and disapproved, the thing he wants to avoid if possible, the methods of the police state. Anything which is required by the state, and for failure in which the state imposes penalties—any such thing, Mr. Truman said, is the police state in action.

He was pressed to be concrete by questions which went on the assumption that voluntary food saving will not be enough. Asked whether rationing of food would be adopted in the present drive, he answered no, not unless it becomes imperative. Asked whether he regards rationing as an act of the police state, he answered firmly, yes, anything that is compulsory is the police state in operation.

Same View On Rent

To similar questions about setting up a duplicate of the wartime price controls, Mr. Truman's answers were the same. One question was aimed toward putting Mr. Truman's philosophy to an embarrassing test—does he regard rent control as the police state? He replied yes, and said that rent control, like any method of the police state, is justified only by emergency. He expressed confidence that the saving of enough food to meet European needs will not reach the stage of emergency, that enough will be saved by the voluntary method.

Mr. Truman's faith in the voluntary method, his personal trait of distaste for anything that seems like compulsion by government or by a government official was brought out by a personal question. He had just announced that, as a means of saving food, state dinners at the White House will be suspended during the coming season. Someone asked him if similar suspension of public functions throughout the country will be made a part of the drive for food saving. He replied, with obvious disinclination to seem to exert pressure, that no, it is for those who customarily hold large public dinners to decide.

One question, meant in part to be humorous, pointed to what seems a paradox in the program which the President's food committee urged upon the public. The food committee urges the public to refrain from eating poultry on Thursdays. But the chickens thus permitted to survive eat grain—and grain is the one form of food most desired for Europe. Might it not be better for the public to eat chickens on Thursday and thus save for Europe the grain those chickens would eat on Friday and days succeeding?

Mr. Truman took the question humorously, but used it to focus and emphasize the central need of Europe and central purpose of the food-saving campaign. It is, in six words, one hundred million bushels of wheat—to bring about, by various rearrangements of the American diet, a consumption of a hundred million bushels less wheat than would normally be consumed. Mr. Truman said the program of his food committee may turn out to have bugs in it, if so these will be discovered by experience and can be changed.

Several questions dealt with whether the immediate "stop gap" aid for Europe can be met by the method which has been relied upon—that is, by existing funds held by various government agencies, and available for this purpose, without need of a new appropriation by congress, and hence without need of a special session of that body. Mr. Truman said this could be done and mentioned the agencies which have various amounts available. As to whether there may be a special session for broader purposes, Mr. Truman indicated that this is not foreclosed.

Tommygunners Kept as Policemen

By The Associated Press

WARSAW—The tommygunner, Poland's exponent of law and order, may someday disappear from the villages, towns and cities, but the day is not yet in sight.

Khaki-clad tommygunners are everywhere. They are Poland's police. They guard government buildings, they flock to every sports event, they direct traffic and patrol streets.

Before the war, Poland had blue-uniformed, regular police armed only with a pistol.

A foreign ministry spokesman said today's law enforcers carry tommyguns because in this country they still deal with "people who carry tommmyguns."

Pericles and the Budget

By Joseph Alsop

ATHENS, Oct., 22 — On its craggy height above this ancient city, in unimaginable loveliness, stands the Parthenon, whose colonnades knew Pericles. In the bay below lies Salamis, where Themistocles tricked sluggish Sparta into the attack on the Persian ships. And at the mid-level between, amid the modern squalor of the King George hotel, sits a former budget commissioner of the state of Pennsylvania, briskly dealing with the Greek budget as though he were back home in Harrisburg. It is an odd contrast, but one which accurately conveys the character of the American mission to Greece headed by former Governor Dwight Griswold of Nebraska. And it is crucially important to understand the character of the American effort here, if only because it indicates how deeply, completely and inescapably we have become involved in the political affairs of Europe.

The facts are, quite literally, staggering in their implications. To begin at the beginning, the present Greek government of Premier Themistocles Sophoulis is American-made. Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh, Governor Griswold and the chief of the state department's middle eastern division, Loy Henderson, had to intervene rather forcefully to secure its formation. Their intervention directly prevented the selection of a government of the extreme right, and secured agreement on the present cabinet representing all parties except the Communists.

Not Completed

Intervention in the formation of a cabinet in itself constitutes acceptance of an unprecedented measure of responsibiliy for the affairs of another country. But the process has by no means ended there. The way the budget problem is being handled is illustrative of the immense further steps that are being taken.

As originally prepared, the new Greek budget amounted to a little less than four trillion drachmae. The Greek revenues amount to about two trillion drachmae. In the present situation in Greece, balancing the budget is the only means to prevent further and absolutely crippling inflation. The Griswold mission has assumed responsibility for balancing the budget. They have indicated broadly what cuts in expenditures must be made. They have insisted on the discharge of 15,000 superfluous civil servants. They may add another 10,000 to the list. They have obtained the approval of the Sophoulis government for their measures. And they have further arranged to place Americans in key positions in the more important ministries, in order to see to it that the approved measures are in fact carried out.

It comes as something of a shock to find Americans performing this sort of role in all the major spheres of Greek governmental activity. The men who compose the Griswold mission are chiefly former state officials or business men or federal civil servants. They are utterly unchanged by their transplantation to an unfamiliar environment. They are even untroubled by their lack of experience in foreign affairs. And this is natural, and indeed unharmful. All of them are thoroughly experienced in practical affairs at home. They understand the job they have to do, and they are doing it. Your reporter asked one of them whether he did not find it difficult always to be dealing with politicians and officials of another country.

Just About the Same

"Well," he replied calmly, "I haven't noticed much difference between the people I work with here and the people round the state house back home. If they're up to anything here the state house crowd haven't thought of, I'll be damned surprised."

What is more imporant, the Greek leaders accept and appear pleased by this decidedly novel approach. The war left Greece economically disorganized and politically in chaos. All wise men have long known what ought to be done. But no individuals or groups have had the strength to do it. The men removed from the padded governmental pay rolls may be displeased. But the majority are happy to have the Americans use the leverage of their position to accomplish what is obviously necessary. If this were not the attitude, the Greek government would not have invited the Americans to extend their responsibilities still more immensely by advising on the military operations of the Greek army. And if the leading Americans were not satisfied with the record of Greek co-operation to date, they would not be anxious to accept this remarkable invitation.

It is infuriating that our Greek effort should be endangered, as usual, by the old errors of too little and too late. It is a source of deep pride that quite average Americans, laboring under the greatest difficulties, should be accomplishing so much. Finally, however, it is a cause for alarm that the United States has assumed these vast responsibilities overseas without quite grasping that such burdens, once picked up, cannot be laid down again. In our vague, somnambulist way, we have already begun to act abroad like the great power we are. The next stage is to stop sleepwalking and act as a great power quite consciously, using all our needed resources, and avoiding the sleepwalker's blind mistakes.

Geographically, Canada is the biggest country in the Americas.

It is pointed out more in sorrow than in an that the same jugheads who yap their through movies, lectures, concerts and the r ister's sermon have taken the radio unto th selves as their very own and are doing it m harm than all its vice presidents, bores dirty-minded curbstone talent that's happ when slipping in something with a re meaning.

Hosiery Firms Charged With Forming "Trust"

By The United Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—Women are not able to buy inexpensive full-fashioned silk and nylon stockings because of a conspiracy between machinery and hosiery manufacturers, the government charged yesterday.

An anti-trust suit filed by the department of justice in federal court here named as defendants two textile machine works, a producer of hosiery machinery, and the Berkshire knitting mills, both located in Wyomissing, Pa., and both allegedly owned by the same individuals.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark said the activities of the companies have created a shortage of hosiery machinery and "have limited the supply of full-fashioned hosiery."

There are 400 companies making full fashioned hosiery at the annual rate of 40,000,000 dozen pairs with a value of over $300,000,000. The government said that Berkshire, using machines made by the other firm, turned out 2,000,000 of the 40,000,000 dozen pairs, or twice the amount of the nearest competitor.

Medical Care Fund Put To Good Use by King's Daughters

This is one of a series of articles dealing with the welfare and character building agencies which participate in the Marion Community Foundation drive opening next Monday. The articles explain the work and program of the agencies and their urgent need for support in the annual campaign.

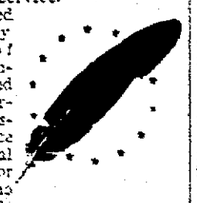
Although asking one of the smallest sums from the 1948 treasury of the Marion Community Foundation, the Emergency Hospitalization Medical Care Fund stands ready to do a big job of community service.



Administered by the City Union of King's Daughters, the fund is the assurance of hospital service and medical attention for persons who do not qualify for relief from other agencies and who do not have sufficient funds or credit ot meet an emergency.

The fund, introduced in the 1946 campaign, has asked for $1,000 from the 1948 Foundation budget.

The reduction from a $2,000 budget of last year was possible because assistance from the fund was necessary in only three cases this year, leaving a balance that with the 1948 appropriation is considered adequate for minimum requirements.

None Refused

No case brought to the attention of the King's Daughters which involves expenditures from the fund ever has been refused in the two years the money has been available, according to Mrs. Walter E. Miley, president of the City Union of King's Daughters.

The three instances in the last year were emergencies and in one case a mother of eight children was told that without immediate surgical attention she could not hope to live to rear her family. Application was made to the emergency fund, the money was granted upon an investigation of the need, the operation was performed, and the mother today is caring for her children.

The other two cases involved much-needed medical attention and the requests were granted.

While the fund was used only three times, each case involved a member of Marion's community and meant the health, happiness, and continued welfare of a family.

On Loan Basis

In all cases, applicants are advised that the fund money is given gladly but on a loan basis, a stipulation that has been welcomed by those who have had to request assistance to tide them over an emergency. As soon as recipients of fund money are rehabilitated financially, they are expected to repay their loan to the fund.

When the fund was first established it became a part of the Fundation only after a thorough investigaion by a committee of Marion citizens who contacted relief agencies, the Red Cross, the King's Daughters, officers of banks and loan companies, and city officials.

The committee found a definite need for the program, despite various relief and welfare organization in the city and county.

The City Union of King's Daughters, approached by the committee, agreed to administer the fund according to the committee's recommendations.

BOY FINDS FREAK FROG FOR HIS BIOLOGY CLASS

A specimen which will be, without doubt, of much interest to one Harding High school biology class, a five-legged frog, was captured by a sophomore biology student, James Riley of 350 Commercial street, while on a week-end frog hunting trip near Marion. He brought the small creature alive to his home and planned to take it to Wednesday class.

The frog is hardly large enough to be any solution to a meat problem of the Riley family on a meatless day, because it is only about six inches long when stretched out. It has its fifth leg growing between its two front ones, it was reported. James found it at the crossing of the C. & O. railroad bridge over the Little Scioto river about four miles west of town. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse R. Riley and a member of the biology class taught by T. D. Bain.

PREMIER OF FRANCE RECALLS ASSEMBLY

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 22—Premier Paul Ramadier called the national assembly back from vacation today for a special session beginning next Tuesday to deal with France's "grave" economic situation.

The assembly was not due to end its summer vacation until Nov. 13.

A communique issued after a cabinet meeting this morning said that because of the "complexity and gravity of the problems it is necessary to inform the parliament."

Ramadier and Minister of National Economy Andre Philip, the communique said, spoke of rising prices, the General Confederation of Labor's demand for a 57 per cent minimum monthly wage hike and "all other problems caused by the country's economic and social situation."

SCHOOL HEAD SPEAKS AT ROTARY MEETING

E. E. Holt Discusses Current Educational Problems.

"Education Today" was the subject of a talk by E. E. Holt, superintendent of the Marion public schools at the weekly meeting if the Rotary club Tuesday at Hotel Harding. Supt. Holt is a member of the club.

It is the conception of Americans, he said, that every child have a maximum of free education regardless, and that this was recognized by our forefathers as the best safeguard for the continuation and improvement of our republican form of government.

He voiced the belief that good citizenship should be developed through the teaching of government as one of the fundamental objectives of education. He urged the best possible community facilities for care and development of young people, pointing out that a child is out of school more hours than he is in school and that consequently learning goes on all of the time.

Declaring that the nation faces an educational crisis, Mr. Holt cited as evidence the fact teachers have gone into other occupations. Loss of teachers has appeared before in high cost of living periods but never before on so great a scale, he said.

Mr. Holt commended the people of Marion especially for their cooperation and support in raising funds to help the educational program of this city.

Guests at the meeting were John J. Ryan of Terre Haute, Ind., John Spaulding of Wilmington, Calif., both Rotarians, Robert P. Lee of New York City, Milton S. Pohler of Kansas City, Mo., James Lierman of Columbus and Norm Maklowski of Detroit.

The reporter from Harding High school for the meeting was Sylvia Frew.

BARITONE PLEASES MARION AUDIENCE

Piero Pierotic Sings on Club Concert Program.

By ELAINE BALLINGER

The singing of Piero Pierotic, Croatian baritone, brought hearty applause response from his Marion audience Tuesday night at Thomas A. Edison Junior High school, and he was called back to give four encore numbers at the close of the program. Also well received were solo numbers by his accompanist, Alfred Patten. The singer and pianist were brought to Marion in a four concert series for the fall season by the Business and Professional Women's club.

Well enunciated were his songs in English, and equally pleasing were the individual numbers which were sung in the language in which they were written. His tones were rich and full, and clear in either pianissimo or fortissimo passages. A well-chosen variety of selections brought out his versatile interpreation. Particularly well liked were the more familiar "Morning" by Oley Speaks, and Wagner's "Evening Star," and an Italian folk song, "A Vuchella," and a folk song of his native Croatian people. "Those Little Roses." His encore numbers were "By the River of the Roses," "Desert Song," "Figaro" and "I Love Life.' These he sang still in costume of his role of Rigoletto, a scene from the opera of the same name which he did as the last number of his 14-number program.

Striking was the change from his erect military posture to the pitifully limping hunchback stance of Rigoletto, court jester, whom he portrayed in his last number. His costume was one which he wore when he played the same role with the state opera in Vienna. The story of the opera was narrated briefly by Mr. Patten, the accompanist.

For his solo numbers, the pianist chose two modern selections for his first group, "London Fantasies' and "Perpetual Motion," to which he added "Petite Valse," and for his second group he presented "Prelude in A Minor," Debussy, 'Tuscan Peasant Song," and an arrangement of three hit numbers from the American musical production "Oklahoma." Mr. Pierotic's other numbers included "Thanks Be to Thee," Handel; "O Lovely Night," Ronald; "Do Not Go, My Love," Hageman; "Into the Night," Edwards; "Child's Prayer," Musorgsky; "Drifting," Grieg; "Love Is the Wind," Mitchel, and "Devotion," Strauss.

ally rapidly increasing tension in Galion. The company went back into partial production last week after obtaining court aid to keep the UAW from molesting or interfering with company employes. According to company estimates, more than 350 of approximately 750 workers have returned to their jobs, with the total slowly rising day by day.

Conferences Held

Following the union's implied "ultimatum" delivered yesterday, a series of conferences was held in City hall as civic leaders met in the interest of bringing peace in the face of high tension."

A group of nine Galion clergymen calling on the mayor received assurance that Sheriff Ralph Schreck and Galion Police Chief James L. Walker were doing everything possible to keep peace. The mayor held additional conferences with law enforcement officers later in the day. Union Representative Duck also was in conference with Mayor William Amann, prior to the meeting of the city council held last night.

Chief Walker advised Galion parents not to permit children to go Halloweening and to warn them to stay away from private homes after dark, in view of the tenseness of the situation. A Galion home was stoned Saturday night.

ejection of one attorney and the threatened expulsion of another.

Heard after Menjou were writer-critic John C. Moffitt, who described a group of writers and studio workers as Communists or "party liners" and author-playwright Rupert Hughes, who said movie producers themselves have been "unjustifiably lax" in supporting with big salaries men "they know to be Communists."

Pilot Tricked

Moffitt declared that Chalmers "Slick" Goodlin, former test pilot for the Air Force's supersonic experimental plane the XS-1, was tricked into disclosing its secrets in an article which a Hollywood agent sent to Communist headquarters in New York.

He said the deal was engineered by John Weber, head of the literary department of the William Morris Theatrical agency, and others "with strong leftist leanings." Moffitt said the FBI is investigating.

In Hollywood, Weber described Moffitt's story as "malicious invention." The FBI declined any comment.

Meanwhile Senator Pepper (D-Fla) advised 19 unwilling witnesses who are under subpoena for next week's sessions to "stand on constitutional immunity" and refuse to answer questions which indicate the committee is "trying to censor anyone's thinking or speech."

Pepper said in an interview last night he told lawyers representing the group of writers, directors and actors that their clients should tell the committee "I'm an American and it' none of your business about what I say, think and write."

Counsel for the 19 men, including actor Larry Parks and writer Ring Lardner Jr., made an unsuccessful attempt to challenge the subpoenas when the hearings began Monday.

FOREST FIRE BURNS 200 MAINE BUILDINGS

By The Associated Press

GOOSE ROCKS BEACH, Me., Oct. 22—A terrifying forest fire consumed almost 200 buildings along a five mile stretch of picturesque Maine coastline before it was brought under control early today.

Most of the razed structures were summer cottages, but there were scores of homeless families in the Goose Rocks, Cape Porpoise and Wildes districts of Kennebunkport.

Kennebunkport village, with 2,000 residents, was spared, as diminishing winds and effective backfiring stemmed the advance of the fire—the most serious of 40 burning in Maine's long-parched forest-lands.

TAFT

front of the Miami hotel, Taft conceded that anybody who said he would be a candidate was entitled to that observation but declared there would be no premature statement from him.

After marching with Mrs. Taft through a narrow lane of pickets, estimated by police at about 500, Taft grinned and said that he was not perturbed by "our usual reception. We would have missed it you know."

"Liberty vs Communism"

From the platform, he told his audience:

"The whole contest of the world today is between liberty and communism. The Communists have made their beliefs into a crusading religion. We could combat communism abroad by setitng forth democracy as an opposing crusading religion."

He expressed the belief that the best way to combat communism in America would be with the repeal of laws he said encouraged communism.

Taft declared that the quickest way to reduce prices at home would be to reduce credit-financed exports to foreign buyers and curtail national expenditures and taxes.

He referred also to the rent control controversy, stating that the Republican party probably would not take an advance stand on this issue, deferring instead until an actual showdown arose in congress.

JEWEL HOARD DISOVERED

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, Oct. 22—A new cache of jewels and other valuables of the once royal Hesse family was found last night in a cottage on the grounds of Kronberg castle, from which $1,500,000 worth of the family's jewels were stolen two years ago by U. S. army officers.

UN TO WEIGH CHARGE OF WAR-MONGERING

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 22—The United Nations turned today to Russia's "war-mongering" charges with prospect of a series of verbal barrages outstripping anything heard in the two-year history of the peace agency.

The Soviet demand that all governments prohibit "war-mongering," the key issue of the Russian program in the 1947 general assembly, reaches the debating stage in the 57-nation political committee with Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky ready to fire the opening blast.

The issue came up on the heels of a thumping defeat for Russia in the full assembly, which voted overwhelmingly in plenary session yesterday to set up a watchdog commission in the Balkans as proposed by the United States. The vote was 40 to 6 with only the Soviet bloc in opposition.

The new commission will begin operations by Nov. 21 and eventually have headquarters in Salonika, Greece.

4 ESCAPE FROM BLAST

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 22—Four truck service garage employes escaped through windows yesterday after gasoline exploded as two men took a battery from a truck. Flames blocked the exits during the two-alarm fire. John Freesner of Lancaster suffered minor burns.

Householders Advised To Order Coal Now

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Government officials said today a winter coal shortage is "very probable" and urged householders to build up their stocks now.

They said a critical shortage of railroad coal cars is holding soft coal production "millions of tons a month" behind domestic consumption and exports.

"Too many householders and industrial users have put off buying their winter coal supplies," one official said. "If these people continue to wait and then all try to buy at once the demand will be so great and supplies so comparatively short the man who gets his order will be lucky."

Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug will meet here tomorrow with representatives of the coal industry, labor, transportation and the public to work out an "accurate appraisal" of coal supplies and shipping problems.

United Air Lines Still Saves USED FATS!

Says Chef EMIL SALZMANN of United Air Lines Commissary at La Guardia Field

We'll send over 3 million meals aloft this year . . . prepared in 12 United Air Lines kitchens across the country. Yet we take the time to save every single drop of used fat. What's more, as long as our government tells us the world fat shortage is still serious, we're going to keep on saving and turning in all the used fats we can. Won't you do the same in your kitchen? Every drop helps!

KEEP TURNING IN YOUR USED FATS!

American Fat Salvage Committee, Inc.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and have bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blemishes disappears—how much better you look. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Central District Groups Hold Autumn Conference in Marion.

Marion Junior and Juvenile Lecture-Recital clubs were host cities for the autumn conference of the central district, Ohio Federation of Junior Music clubs, Saturday afternoon at Thomas A. Edison Junior High school. This was the seventh central district conference since the war. Mrs. Freeman Eagleson of Columbus, state president of the Ohio Federation of Music clubs, spoke.

Registration was in charge of Mrs. Griselda Davis Dombaugh and Alla Lee Robinson. Opening part of the meeting included national anthem accompanied by Frederick Lacey, greetings by Mary Ellen Hinamon, president of the Marion Junior club, and response was by Faye Vogel of the Delaware Junior club. Collect and pledge was led by Lowell Gettman of the Marion Juvenile club, and following roll call and reports, Mrs. H. J. Mautz, state junior counsellor, gave highlights of the national music convention in Detroit last spring, quoting emphasis of that meeting that "music is an important weapon for peace."

Mrs. Karl Schell, new district counsellor, gave greetings and asked for promotion of music work in the district. Mrs. Eagleson, just returned from a national board meeting in Des Moines, Ia., spoke on composition work, told of Ohio's high standing in music activities of the nation, and of what is being planned to promote music in schools. She urged district juniors to submit compositions for the Ohio music festival in April. It was announced that she is new chairman for junior compositions. Mrs. Leroy Schneider of Marion has been named editor of the junior division of the Ohio Federation of Music clubs magazine, Mrs. Eagleson announced.

A program included numbers by members of the two local clubs and of the Delaware club. Taking part were Phyllis Corbin, piano; Fred Holt, trombone; Bob Fraley of Delaware, piano; Mary Lou Swigart, vocal solo; Jane Baldauf, piano; and James Wanner, trumpet. Accompanists were Frederick Lacey, Irey Holt and Mrs. John Lacey.

Closing the meeting was a tea for which Mrs. W. J. Wise was chairman, assisted by Mrs. Clara Campbell, president of Marion Lecture-Recital club. Decorations included a large American flag presented to the Junior club here some time ago by Miss Emma Wehrle, and on display were a loving cup received for high ratings by the Marion junior clubs and held since 1937, and scrapbooks of the two Marion groups.

Besides Mrs. Eagleson, guests included Mrs. Arnison, district president and her sister, Mrs. A. Williams from Florida, Mrs. Ralph Mills, Juvenile club counsellor, Mrs. Eleanor Smith, conference secretary for the day, and Mrs. James C. Woods, Mrs. O. D. Anderson, Mrs. H. T. Williams, Mrs. Schneider and Mrs. William Ackerman, members of the board.

TAFT SEEN DECLINING WISCONSIN PRIMARY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) was reported today to have decided to pass up the Wisconsin presidential preference primary.

Thus the first major battle of the G.O.P. pre-nomination campaign likely will be fought there among Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Harold E. Stassen, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and possibly Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

With Wisconsin law permitting any candidates's name to be entered in the preference primary, with or without his consent, politicians generally agree that MacArthur's friends will battle for a share of the state's 27 delegates to the Philadelphia national convention.

The April 6 date for the primary may find MacArthur back in this country from his tour of duty in Japan.

MacArthur has been something of a favorite in Wisconsin since 1944. That is the year Wendell L. Willkie withdrew from the Republican presidential nomination race after failing to win a single delegate in the primary after stumping the state.

With his name the only one on the preferential ballot—as distinguished from the delegate ballot—MacArthur got 102,421 votes that year. Voters wrote in Dewey's name 21,036 times and gave Stassen 7,928 and Willkie 6,439 by the same method.

Two Congregations May Share Common Church

By International News Service

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 22—A unique plan for joint use of a church by a Jewish and a Protestant congregation was advanced today in Louisville.

The plan evolved from negotiations for the purchase of the present Douglas boulevard Christian church by the B'rith Sholom temple. A tentative agreement provides for use of the building by both congregations until the Christian church finds a site and builds a new church.

Leaders of both groups expressed enthusiasm about the plan. Rev. Thomas M. Giltner of the Christian church said:

"I think it would be a splendid thing for both of us. It would lead to better understanding between the two groups."

Rabbi Martin Perley of the B'rith Sholom temple declared:

"The plan has the approval of our congregation. It indicates that people can worship the same God under the same roof in a different way."

Youth Night Service Observed at Revival

At the Youth night service of the revival at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church Tuesday night, delegations were present from Trinity Evangelical United Brethren church of Upper Sandusky, First Church and Oakland, Greenwood and Salem churches of the denomination of Marion, and Epworth Methodist church of Marion, besides Calvary church.

Rev. P. E. Smoke of Columbus, a former pastor of Calvary church, and Rev. D. H. Hochstettler, pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren church, Marion, offered prayers. Sermon by Rev. Lewis H. Naumann of Canton was "The Sacred Heart."

Special music was by a youth choir of 42, directed by Rev. R. W. Faulkner, Calvary pastor, accompanied by Miss Nancy Kuntz at the piano. Elmer Harruff directed congregational singing, with Mrs. J. W. Baker at the organ and Miss Kuntz at the piano. It was announced that tonight will be Old Time Religion night.

Rev. Naumann declared if anybody would be a Christian, young or adult, there are certain things that need to be done. We can speak out of thin air and say, 'I profess to be a Christian'. There is a cost to it. A thing that does not cost you anything you do not care very much about. You are only free when you have in your heart a Master which is spelled with a capital "M", Jesus, Christ, your Saviour and Lord.

W.C.T.U. Maps Plans For 1948 Campaign

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22 — The Ohio Women's Christian Temperance Union began mapping plans for 1948 today after hearing the organization's president urge formation of an independent political party that would press for prohibition.

Miss Mary B. Ervin of Columbus declared last night in her annual address that "it is time for the temperance forces in America to wake up and unite in a movement" for such a party.

She told the convention that "what ails our youth" and "older generation" today is "a drink bill which exceeds the amount spent for groceries."

The country spent $8,770,000,000 for alcoholic beverages last year and the amount has averaged an annual increase of a billion dollars during the past five years, the W.C.T.U. leader said.

Declaring prohibition forces were on the march, Miss Ervin said a third of the nation is already dry and 32 states have dry areas.

PAROLE BOARD STUDIES ERROR

Ponders Dilemma of Freed Lifer Who Now Is Indicted for 2 Murders.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 22—Members of the Ohio pardon and parole commission came up against an old and many times unanswerable problem with human relations today—the man who goes bad.

The case was that of Clifford Gayles, 34, of Xenia, who served 10 years, the minimum, of a life sentence for second degree murder for the fatal stabbing of his sweetheart in Cincinnati just 17 years ago.

He was released on parole Jan. 22, 1945, and now, almost three years later, faces two first degree murder indictments — one in Greene county for the fatal shooting of Mrs. Ellie Davidson Guy, the other in Butler county for the fatal beating of Mrs. Edna Adkins, a Franklin housewife. Both slayings happened the afternoon and evening of Aug. 31.

Reminds Board

The Butler county grand jury said in its report:

"Attention of the parole board is called to the recurrence of shocking crimes committed by persons who have previously been convicted of crime and who have been released under parole."

None of the present three members was on the commission which heard Gayles' case in December, 1944, and they declined comment pending receipt of a certified copy of the indictment, which Common Pleas Judge Fred B. Cramer had ordered sent here.

Others O.K.'d Parole

However, Charles L. Sherwood, state welfare director and nationally known penologist who was commission chairman at that time, noted that neither the judge who prosecutor at that time, L. J. Ryan, nor the Hamilton county prosecutor at htat time, L. J. Schneider, nor anyone else objected when notified that Gayles was due for a hearing.

Gayles' file showed that he had no criminal record before killing his sweetheart, Mamie Robinson, Oct. 5, 1934 and that his prison conduct record was good.

Nor was there any notation from the parole officer supervising him, Nolan Snyder of Springfield, of any difficulty after his release until the two slayings nearly three years later. Released second degree murderers are on parole for the rest of their lives.

Fears of Hike in Sugar Ridiculed by Industry

By The United Press

Housewives feared today that sugar prices will jump when controls are lifted Oct. 31 but spokesmen for the sugar industry said the scare is groundless.

Sugar is the only item still controlled and many women have been buying huge supplies, believing that prices will follow those of other decontrolled items in the upward spiral.

Wholesalers across the nation have reported increased demands. One said he had "only 200 bags of bulk sugar left out of 10 carloads." He said that many jobbers were out of sugar and described the situation as "serious."

BIRTH RATE SOARS

GALION—That the stork is literally roosting on City hospital this year is indicated in the record of births. There are at present 16 more births than the entire total of 1946. Prospects look good for the remainder of the year. In 1946 there were 404 births. The total for 1947, up to this week, was 430.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment, sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that 8S8 Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the 8S8 Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, 8S8 Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is 8S8 Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people 8S8 Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of 8S8 Tonic from your drug store today. 8S8 Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

It is not easy to surprise my father, and I rarely have seen him taken aback.

But the jaunty, yet earnest announcement which Georges just had made left him speechless and staring at the fugitive king of Thieves for fully two seconds.

Woman-like, I thrilled to the romance of Georges' speech, and saw by Lillian's face that she shared my emotion. But although the faces of our husbands were carefully masked, I knew by Harry's eyes, and by Harry's, that the men were distinctly not charmed by the royal playboy's announcement.

As I pondered they were mentally asking: "Which woman he loves?" and wondering whether he meant Olina, to whom he was officially betrothed, or if, by any chance, he hoped to put Noel into thin air and run away with Mary, for whom he, first openly, and then secretly, had "carried a torch" for so long.

Of course I instantly dismissed that theory as fantastic. Mary had effectively deflated his last attempt at a romantic farewell interlude when he had last been in this country, and he had gone away formally betrothed to Olina and apparently very much in love with her.

That his proposal was at direct variance with my father's plans, we all could see, except, perhaps, Georges, whose supreme confidence in his own ability to surmount all obstacles had no limit that I ever had noticed.

"I do not see exactly how that is to be managed," Georges," my father said mildly, although I guessed that he was seething inside.

"That I leave to your wizardry," Georges returned, with what would have been sheer impudence if it had not been couched in his usual winning, deferential tones.

"I would have urged the marriage before I left the last time," he said, "but I had to depart so hurriedly that it could not be arranged. And, besides, I could not take her into Transvania."

"But you will not be taking her into Transvania now," my father reminded him.

"Of course not," Georges retorted. "But this errand of mine now is not going to be a short one. This mystery friend of Laura's is going to take some hunting. Very few people know of her existence even. I stumbled upon the story by sheer accident. I shall have to stay over here for some time, and what better chance would I have for a honeymoon?"

"A honeymoon behind bars?" my father queried ironically. "With guards posted outside your doors?"

"Ah!" Georges said, with a wave of his hand. "The zest of danger! It will be priceless! Dear 'Chief,' when can I see my liege lady, and tell her that I have come to claim her?"

I guessed that my father was at a loss for words, something unprecedented on his part. He did not reply to Georges' appeal for almost half a minute, and I was maliciously pleased to see that self-assured young man lose a trifle of his confidence.

"You wish to see her in your present make-up?" my father asked at last, and though no color stained the perfect pallor of Harry Underwood's make-up job, the eyes of the fugitive king showed panic.

"Heavens, no!" he exclaimed. "But how is that necessary? I was able to go to the Lansfield before, and I could have removed my disguise before I met her. But that was not as awful, as shocking, as this one! Why could I not be smuggled into a room at the hotel, and have the make-up removed before seeing her?"

My father waited another half minute before speaking again and I guessed that he was striving for patience with this bare-brained adventurer whose proven bravery and resourcefulness in times of danger were not always atonement for the trouble he brought by his thoughtlessness to those who were trying to aid him, and who, worse luck, were responsible for him.

"Georges," he said at last, "I do not believe you realize just what difficulties I am facing in this unexpected appearance of yours."

"Oh, I'm not blaming you, he went on hastily. "You had no choice but to come hurriedly, at the first opportunity, and communicate with me. But, frankly, you have arrived at the worst possible time for adequately guarding you."

He stopped, and looked doubtfully at me.

"I had not meant to tell you this, Margaret," he said, "but the vicinity of the hideaway has been closely watched for days, and I believe that some of the conspirators in Otto's employ may suspect that Georges was on his way to me.

"I did not dare to take you to the hideaway, Georges," he went on, "but smuggled you here by devious ways. And I do not dare let you go near the Lansfield. I must get you to the safety of the Sag Harbor secret underground chamber as soon as possible."

Georges' eyes were suddenly tragic, and I spoke without thinking of the consequences of my utterance.

"Wouldn't it be possible to have Olina come out to the farmhouse and be married there?" I asked.

Prexies Seek Sixth Straight With Smith, Bishop Injured

By BILL DIEM

Wheels of the Harding grid machine will turn again at Ashland tomorrow night as the Prexies try to press a strong Ashland team into victim No. 6.

Jack Bishop, a regular Prexy cog at right end, may not be able to start against the A's because of a knee injury sustained in the Harding-Findlay tilt last Friday night.

Also on the injured list is fleet fullback Clarence Smith, whose two punt runbacks in the Findlay game clinched for the Prexies their first win over the Trojans since 1928. He's bothered with a charley-horse this week.

Otherwise In Good Shape

Outside of the two injuries, the Presidents are in great shape to add Ashland to their string of victims—Columbus South, Tiffin Columbian, Uhrichsville, Lima South and Findlay.

If the Prexies can keep up the pace they've set in past games, Ashland should take the count tomorrow. Then the Prexies would have only Fremont Ross as a strong threat to their winning status Circleville and Sandusky, though tough, don't scare the Presidents.

Dewey Bohyer, Harding athletic director, reports that if Marion fans want seats at the game they had better plan to arrive between 7 and 7:15 p. m. Last week, a crowd of 4,500 tried to squeeze into Ashland Redwood stadium's 3,200 seats.

On College Campus

The football stadium is located on the Ashland college campus, and Bohyer warns that no parking is allowed on the campus.

Ashland has alloted Harding fans 414 tickets—300 student tickets, and 114 reserve tickets.

Ducats for the game will go on sale in Marion in East Hall at 12:30 p m Thursday. No student tickets will be on sale at the gate tomorrow night.

Game time is 8 p. m.

Probable starting Harding lineup: ends, Peadon and Taylor; tackles, Ralston and Hoffman; guards, Menzer and Corwin; center, Short; quarterback, Leffler; halfbacks, Coss and Hill, and fullback, Smith.

Probable Ashland starters: ends, Kubinyi and Bates; tackles, Cunningham and Miller; guards, Mowery and Reed; center, McAllister; quarterback, Dave Burns; halfbacks, Dick Burns and Fackler, and fullback, Hurst.

BRAVES LOSE HOMER KING TO MINOR LEAGUE DRAFT

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 22—Carden Gillenwater, the American Association's top home run hitter the past season, was on exhibit to the Boston Braves on a you-can-look-but-you-can't-touch basis today after Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler nullified his sale to the National League club.

The 29 year old Milwaukee Brewer outfielder, with the Braves in 1945 and 1946 and once given a try with both the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers, was sold to the parent Braves a few weeks ago. But a subsequent recheck of records disclosed the big right-handed fly chaser had been optioned three times in the past and therefore was eligible for the minor league draft next month.

The Braves ran into a similar situation last year after they swapped five players and a large, but undisclosed, chunk of cash for Jake (Lucky) Lohrke of San Diego, only to learn that Lohrke was subject to the draft. Lohrke was picked up quickly by the New York Giants at the draft meeting.

MICHIGAN EYES MARK SET BY ARMY IN '45

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—Michigan's yard-consuming Wolverines must have their sights set on Army's all-time national total offense record of 182.7 yards per game compiled back in 1945.

Figures released by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau today showed the walloping Wolverines are rolling along at a 484.5 yard per game clip in football gains from both rushing and passing, to lead the nation for the second straight week.

Statistics the week before showed Michigan averaging 479.3.

The Crisler machine's chief gains have been through the air, where Michigan leads the country's collegians with an average of 220 yards per game. This average is down from 248 of the previous week as the Wolverines stuck closer to the ground in macerating Northwestern last Saturday—but there's no other team within 37 yards of the aerial pacemakers.

In rushing offense, Michigan ranks 11th with a 264.5 yard average.

Best rushing offense team of the week is Penn State, averaging 322 yards per game on the ground

Notre Dame, fourth-ranking forward passing team, boasts the best pass completion average, 59 per cent.

The south, traditionally a punting stronghold, grabbed off the first four places among team leaders in punting averages, with two schools currently ranking above the all-time high of 43.3 yards per spiral registered by Auburn in 1939.

North Carolina leads in punting average, with 46.3, down from 46.9 of the week before.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—For the benefit of football fans who still are excited over Frank Leahy's offer to send his Notre Dame team against Michigan any time, one guy who usually knows the score at South Bend gives this explanation: It was merely Frank's reaction to outside criticism of his players. He figures he can put them on the griddle if he wants but when someone else starts, Leahy becomes a strong defender of his own men . . . Also, our informant adds, he knew the players would read his remarks . . . Doc Romnes, former Chicago Blackhawk, has a dozen lettermen working out for his U. of Minnesota hockey team . . . City college of New York, which expects to have one of the top basketball teams this season, will play only two of its 21 games on the home court—and only two out of town.

ANGELS SCHEDULED AT MARION SATURDAY

Will Play Unbeaten Sheridan Merchants at Stadium.

Marion Safety Cab Angels will entertain the unbeaten Sheridan (Inc.) Merchants Saturday night in the Angel's last Inter-State league game of the season

At the season's midpoint, the Angel record stands at four wins and two losses. They have a 2-2 record in league games, winning from Mendon and Dayton Rockets and losing to the Indianapolis All-Stars and Lockland Legion.

The Sheridan Merchants will probably give the locals a rough time of it—they are undefeated this season and lead the Inter-State league

Sheridan stopped the Dayton Rockets—Angel opponent last Saturday—27-14, two weeks ago The Angels just squeezed by them, 7-6

Coach Gene Fetter calls the Sheridan machine the toughest the Angels will face this season

On the bright side of the picture for the Angels is the return to the lineup of Harold Hodges, Angel halfback who was injured in the Angel-Lockland tilt two weeks ago.

After Sheridan, the Angels face the Dayton Bombers, Fort Wayne St Joe, the Covington Rockets, and Columbus 740 A C all of which are non-league opponents

KENTUCKY CENTER NAMED LINEMAN OF THE WEEK

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—Things are looking up in football down University of Kentucky way. One of the reasons is the play of Jay Rhodemyre.

A center, Rhodemyre today was selected as the lineman of the week in the first Associated Press poll of the 1947 season. He gained the honor for the manner in which he tore Vanderbilt's line to shreds last Saturday, thus helping to topple Vanderbilt from the unbeaten ranks.

Only Upper Sandusky Remains Unbeaten Among Football Teams in Marion Area

Upper Sandusky alone of the football teams in this area remains undefeated as high school football approaches the seventh week of play Friday.

Upper Sandusky's rampaging Rams have come from behind in four games to remain undefeated and untied this season.

They've stopped Montpelier, Bellevue, Norwalk, Crestline, Willard and Galion, scoring 96 points to their opponents 32.

The leaders of the Northern Ohio league will meet some stiff opposition this Friday when they travel to Bucyrus to meet the once-beaten, once-tied Redmen.

Have Good Record.

Until Crestline kicked them out of the win column with a 13-7 win last week, the Redmen wore the undefeated laurels and were running a close second in the league race.

On the basis of comparative scores with four common opponents—Willard, Galion, Norwalk and Crestline—the Rams rate one touchdown better than Bucyrus, but a steamed up Redman team could knock the handicap galleywest.

While the Rams and the Redmen battle it out at Bucyrus, Willard and Crestline will meet in a league game at Willard, Crestline has a 2-2 league record, while Willard is one step above the cellar dwellers, Galion, with a 1-4 record.

Galion at Bellevue.

Bellevue will play host to Galion in a third Northern-Ohio league tilt. Bellevue has won three, tied one, and lost one in the league. The Galion Tigers have been unable to win any league games and their only football victory of the season is over non-league Tiffin Calvert.

The Marysville Monarchs will go to Mt. Gilead for a Mid-State league encounter. The Mt. Gilead Indians at the present time reside in the league cellar but they hope to ambush the second place Monarchs.

The Kenton Wildcats entertain Celina The Wildcats failed to regain their winning stride last week, but tied Ada, 13-13 They were blasted out of the unbeaten class by Wapakoneta the week before.

Carey goes to Fremont St. Joseph on Oct 25. The Blue Devils have a season record of four wins and two losses. They are in second place in the Mid-State league with a 2-1 record. St. Joseph is a non-league opponent

The Ashley Aces travel to Bellville.

ONE YANK, NO BUMS NAMED TO ALL-STARS

Only Di Maggio of Series Players Makes AP Team.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—Only one member of the world champion New York Yankees and not one of the National league pennant winning Brooklyn Dodgers made the 1947 major league All-Star team of The Associated Press picked by 291 baseball writers throughout the nation.

The New York Giants, Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves, none of whom finished higher than third, each placed two men on the team which showed a National league complexion, with six representatives from the senior circuit as compared to four from the American The St. Louis Cardinals and the Detroit Tigers, runners-up in their respective leagues, failed to place a man

The Giants were represented by Johnny Mize at first base and Walker Cooper behind the plate. The Indians donated their fine Keystone combination of shortstop Lou Boudreau and second baseman Joe Gordon. The Braves placed third baseman Bob Elliott and lefthanded pitcher Warren Spahn.

Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates made up the outfield while Ewell Blackwell of the Cincinnati Reds won top honors among the righthanded pitchers

No players was a unanimous choice Williams, who led the American league in about every noteworthy batting department, drew the most support from the scribes, polling 209 out of a possible 233 votes. DiMaggio was close behind with 207 votes Mize was third with 189 followed by Boudreau, 177, Blackwell, 158; Cooper, 141; Kiner, 137, Spahn, 115, Gordon, 113, and Elliott, 99

Stanky Says He Hopes To Remain with Bums

By The Associated Press

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 22—Little Eddie Stanky, says he'd like nothing better than to spend his next four or five years playing second base for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Various rumors have had it that Stanky would spend 1948 as manager of the Dodgers, as manager of a Dodger farm club and as second baseman for another major league club with Jackie Robinson taking over his present post

"I have four or five years left as a player and I'd certainly like to spend them playing second base for the Dodgers," he said yesterday. "I've made so many friends up there, and the fans like me"

Apathy of School Coaches Is Factor in O. S. U. Doldrum

By JOHN BARRINGTON
International News Service Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22—Down through the years, Ohio State university has been first in the affections of Buckeye fans, but it is not always ranked equally high in the estimation of the state's high school athletes and coaches.

Under ideal circumstances, the high schools might be expected to feed their best grid products into the Ohio State hopper. The flow of talent, however, has fluctuated from period to period in O.S.U. athletic history.

Possibly the pipeline never has been so unproductive as it was this fall. At any rate, Buck officials recently revealed that they got very little of the high octane talent in this year's schoolboy crop mart.

Reasons for this are legion, and some are quite obvious

Claim "Pay" Is Low

The Buck athletic department maintains that it loses some of the boys because it isn't in a position to offer the inducements put forward by certain other schools

In addition, many scholastic athletes are wary about going to a school with the recent record of instability Ohio State has offered.

The Buckeye dads had four coaches in the last five years, which doesn't make for confidence in the system.

Above and beyond those factors, however there has been an outspoken antipathy toward Ohio State noticeable in many quarters

Veteran Ohio high school coaches feel they have part of the answer to all that. In a nutshell, they charge.

1. Wes Fesler, present Buck mentor, erred when he failed to appoint at least one high school coach to his staff (Jack Mollenkopf of Toledo Waite later went to Purdue as Stu Holcomb's line coach; the Boilermaker forward wall is acclaimed as one of the best in the country.)

2 Failure of OSU officials to provide for adequate entertainment of high school gridders at Buck games has failed to exploit a natural means of stimulating interest in Ohio State.

(Two outstanding schoolboy squads from Hamilton and Barberton saw last week's Iowa game from bleachers behind the south goal posts in Ohio stadium.)

3 Buck ticket officials reneged on a promise to provide two passes to each member of the High School Football Coaches association. Instead, they offered two passes per school, to be used only by coach and assistant coach and stipulated that recipients must order seats for all games before the season began.

Coaches Are "Sore"

The association feels that the high school coaches who develop the talent on which O.S.U. depends should be recognized as that their pass demands would be a veritable drop in the bucket in the huge stadium. They feel also that school superintendents, principals and other administrative officials should not be snubbed by the state university.

The coaches emphatically declare that the high school all-star game staged each summer causes Ohio State to lose many good boys. They contend that the squads at last summer's game were carefully sheltered from all visiting scouts. They point out also, that Ray Eliot, coach of the northern team didn't take a single Ohio State back to Illinois with him.

Moreover, the scholastic mentors say that they are contacted weekly throughout the season by coaches from all over the country asking permission to talk to boys whose exploits have been called to their attention. Most of the same coaches charge that Ohio State contact men bypass the coach of the school concerned and go after the stars directly.

BOWLING SCORES

Monday night saw 26 women step from the alleys at the Marion Recreation with single scores averaging 160, a pretty fair score for the feminine bowlers. All were representatives of the Monday Nite Ladies league. Most of that number, though, only could reach the 200 mark and took all honors for both the high single game and the high set. She is Margie Krausz, she with a 205 and a 499.

In the Ohio Public Service league at the Palace, W. P. Applegett's 221 and 568 just couldn't be beaten for either the single or set in the men's division. Dorothy Rhinehart and Eve Applegett battled all the way to the last pin for the honors in the women's division, Rhinehart winning the single with a 172 and Applegett hot on her heels with a 167, then Applegett taking the series with a 482 with Rhinehart trailing a close 465.

At the Marion Recreation, J. McFarland was the top man in the Home Bowling league. His single 213 and his series 564 was a little too high for his opponents. In the Standard Oil league at the Marion Recreation, the best any woman kegler could do was Umbaugh with a 197 single, a very good best. Her series 571 was also a score for any man or woman to shoot at in the future.

POWER LINE NEARING CITY

High Tension Towers from Mansfield Move Toward New Sub-Station.

The Ohio Public Service Co. project linking the Scioto power plant on route 4 near Prospect with the other sectors of the company system is moving rapidly toward completion, according to Marion Division Manager Harold J. Grigsby.

The project involves the erection of a new substation at the northern edge of the city, bringing in a "tie line" from the Mansfield area to Marion and changing of a feeder line from the Scioto plant to the new substation, to be known as the C. C. Roberts station.

The Mansfield to Marion "tie line" may be in operation by Jan. 1, if materials continue to arrive on schedule, Mr. Grigsby reported. The steel towers carrying the 132,000 volt line from Mansfield have been erected as far west at a point just north of Marion, with the lines up over most of the way.

The C. C. Roberts substation located northwest of the city in the vicinity of Garden city pike is under construction at the present time. A two-way radio tower already has been erected at the substation site.

Line crews of the Marion division are at work changing the Scioto Plant feeder line to the new substation site. When completed the feeder line will carry a 34,000 volt load, a boost from 13,200 volts now carried. The change was made to tie in with the 132,000 volt line coming in from Mansfield.

The new substation system and linkage with the other sectors of the OPS system will effect an increase of kilowatt hours delivered locally to a maximum of 70,000. The capacity of the Scioto plant is rated at 38,500.

Friday Is Deadline For Yule Packages

Friday is the deadline for packages to be sent to service men who will be on the high seas at Christmas time, it was announced today by Mrs. C. W. Smoot, chairman of Community Service to Camps and Hospitals in the Marion County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Gifts are still needed to complete Marion county's quota of 25 gift packages. The need, in order that each man will be assured of a gift, is 155,000 from the nation, the Red Cross states. Organizations and clubs have responded to letters explaining the project, but there still is a need for several more packages, the committee states. The package is to contain among other gifts, one item such as a cigaret lighter, billfold, picture folder, fountain pen or other useable remembrance. Clubs, service groups and organizations, or individuals wishing to remember a service man may send their gift to the local Red Cross office.

Mrs. Smoot and her committee will Christmas wrap and pack the gifts Friday at the Red Cross office.

Soldier Bonus Tops List Of Four State Election Issues

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 22—Ohio heads for its most important off-year election in many years on Nov. 4 with four proposed constitutional amendments and a significant congressional seat hanging in the balance.

Normally the off-year balloting is given entirely to local issues, but this year statewide interest is being tempted—albeit feebly—by a 300-million-dollar soldier bonus issue, a lesser companion proposal to add the governor and state treasurer to the state board of sinking fund commissioners, a decision on increasing the terms of probate judges from four to six years, and an initiated proposal to earmark all gasoline and liquid fuel taxes for street and highway purposes only.

In addition voters in the six counties of the fourth district, of which Lima is the largest city, are to choose a successor to Congressman Robert F. Jones, the Lima Republican resigned to accept President Truman's appointment to a 10-year Republican term on the federal communications commission.

Bonus Proposal Outstanding

The soldier bonus issue easily is the foremost of the issues in the public eye.

The bonus—a maximum of $400 to each veteran—would be computed on the basis of $10 for each month of domestic service and $15 for each month overseas.

It is to be paid for through a 15-year bond issue for 275 million dollars, since the last legislature, in anticipation of probable approval, already has set aside 25 million dollars as a down payment.

The 275 millions in bonds would be retired partly through the earmarking of the first million dollars from all sources to come into the treasury each month, and the balance on an additional levy on real estate.

The interest rate on the bonds will be up to the discretion of the sinking fund commissioners who will administer the program. The commissioners are a constitutionally-established body consisting—now—of the auditor, the secretary of state, and the attorney general.

Would Add Two to Board

It was felt at the time the legislature passed the bonus proposal that a debt of such magnitude should also be subject in some measure to the other elective officers of the state. This resulted in the second proposal to add the governor and state treasurer to the board.

The legislature could approve only the form of the soldier bonus, since there was not sufficient money in the treasury to pay the entire cost and the state, under the constitution, is prohibited from going into debt more than $750,000, without a vote of the people.

State Treasurer Don H. Ebright estimates that the commissioners could sell the bonds for about one and one-quarter percent interest. Even this low interest rate, however, would add about 24½ millions to the cost.

Thus the bonds would, over their 15-year span, be called upon to furnish the original 275 million plus 24½ millions interest, or a total of 302½ million dollars.

This amounts to slightly more than 20 millions a year—$20,162,814 to be exact. Since the treasury furnishes the first 12 millions a year, it would leave more than eight millions to be raised through additional real estate taxation.

Estimate of Levy

Ebright estimated the total tax duplicate of Ohio at 11 billion, 219 million-odd dollars. He figures that a levy of .727539 of a mill would be necessary—or, boiled down to simplest terms, an additional tax of $3.64 a year on each home appraised at $5,000.

The levy might be increased slightly, since Ebright's calculations are figured on the basis of 100 per cent tax collections—a desirable end but one generally in the realm of fantasy.

The bonus would go to all persons who served in the armed forces between Pearl Harbor—Dec. 7, 1941—and V-J day—Sept. 2, 1945—and who, at the time they entered service, were legal residents of the state.

Time served in penal confinement is not counted, and a discharge under honorable circumstances, if the recipient is not still in the armed forces, is required.

No payment is provided for those serving less than 90 days, and the members of the merchant marine are specifically excluded.

In the case of a person whose death was service-connected and in line of duty, his survivors are to receive the full $400 maximum regardless of the length of time he was in service.

22 HURT IN CRASH OF ST. PAUL TRAINS

By The Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 22—Twenty-two persons were injured, at least one seriously, when a Soo line passenger train and a Northern Pacific freight collided head-on today near the north city limits of St. Paul.

The injured included 17 passengers on the Chicago to St. Paul passenger train and five crew members. Reported in serious condition was J. A. Ritchie of St. Paul, freight engineer, who was thrown about 25 feet.

One car of the passenger train and a boxcar on the freight were telescoped. Several cars were derailed but remained upright.

George Dick of St. Paul, fireman on the passenger, was dug out from under merchandise strewn from the telescoped freight car. Dick had jumped just before the collision.

The Northern Pacific operates on the Soo line tracks at the location of the wreck. The freight was moving toward a siding.
